

Existing criminal and civil law already provide ample sanctions against unauthorized use of copyrighted material. This proposal is the thin end of the wedge in yet another corporate attempt to restrict the public's fair use rights.